

Seminar on the RD 216/2014 which establishes the methodology to calculate the Electricity Volunteer Prices for Small Consumers (PVPC): Impacts on the energy contracts of the Local Authorities. Proposals and tools to manage those changes.

Date: 18 June 2014

Place: Auditorium of the Vagó building in Escola Industrial. Comte Urgell, 187

Schedule: 9:00-13:00h

Description

Regulatory changes in the electricity market have been frequent during the last years. Recently (March 2014) a new Royal Decree (RD) has been approved which establishes the methodology to calculate the electricity prices and the legal system of contracting. This new methodology will change the electricity bill and will affect most of the supplies.

In order to manage energy properly it is very important to know how electricity prices are established. Thus, it is essential keep up to date on the various regulatory changes in order to be able to plan the best strategies and actions in energy management. So, this seminar will deal with the RD 216/2014 impacts and which are the existing tools to manage them.

Barcelona Provincial Council (Diputació de Barcelona) has been a Covenant Coordinator from 20089. As a result, there are around 200 SEAP drafted which must be implemented. Diputació de Barcelona is a partner on the Mayors in Action project, supported by the Intelligent Energy Europe program (IEE), which wants to promote the implementation of SEAP's actions through capacity building and peer approaches. Energy management is a clue action in almost all SEAPs drafted and it is one of the selected tools during the first meeting of Mayors in Action.
